Today's Activities in Nation's Capital City Told in Brief

Associated Press Boils Down Washington News for Busy Readers

BULLETIN
Washington, May 14.—(AP)—With bipartisan advocates of the "skip a year" plan of tax abatement holding their lines firmly, the senate beat down, 50 to 32, today an administration attempt to amend the new revenue bill to provide for cancellation of only 75 per cent of a year's levies.

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The Navy announced today that American forces are on Attu. Their fight for that pin-point island heralded a drive to sweep the Japanese from the Aleutians and hence assumed a high place in the scheme of global war.

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill discussed the things that must follow the allied victory in North Africa and congress busied itself with a half dozen projects including a $29,000,000,000 naval appropriations bill, the Navy told of the Attu action.

The Navy bill, sent to the house by its appropriations committee, is the largest in history. The committee commented that "the country may have every confidence in the achievement of an unconditional victory across both oceans if the home front continues to do its part."

Prospects of rationing clothing and textiles were mentioned meanwhile in connection with a deficiency appropriations bill handled by the same committee.

It was told by War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson that such rationing "is imminent unless we can use the best brains of the industry and so utilize all the facilities as to get the most out of them."

From both Churchill and the war department came reports on the Tunisian victory, the British leader predicting like triumphs against Japan.

Thanking Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek for his congratulations, Churchill messaged that "the day will come when we shall rejoice at similar feats of arms of the United Nations which will surely drive the Jap invader from the soil of China."

Campaign Summarized
The war department summarized the campaign and said allied forces in North Africa destroyed approximately 2,000 enemy planes while losing about 770 in the little more than six months between the landings of last November and the collapse of Axis resistance May 11.

Roosevelt's Friday press conference developed no news about his continuing strategy talks with Churchill but the president did tell inquirers that he assumed that quite a large number of the axis prisoners from North Africa would be brought to this country.

Meanwhile, in the senate's first test of sentiment on cancelling income tax obligations, it passed a 57 to 21 an amendment to the pay-as-you-go revenue bill to create current payments against this year's income and collect the full 1942 tax in 10 semi-annual installments starting next March.

There was also speculation in the Capital that Hitler might be showing up a desperate and spectacular stab at Russia.

Roosevelt and Churchill were believed considering that possibility in their global strategy conference, now in its third day—but there was no comment from the

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

We may have the forerunner of sensational developments in the reports that Holland and part of Belgium are seething with revolt against their boche oppressors, and that patriot bands are springing into action from one end of the continent to the other.

All the occupied countries of Europe, and some of the small satellites, are smoldering volcanoes which need little to set them into violent eruption. Maybe the Dutch and Belgian movements aren't enough to turn the trick but there always is the possibility that the trouble may spread from them.

Should civilian Europe suddenly rise against the Huns it would create an entirely new situation. Allied plans might go by the board almost overnight and have to be supplanted by new ones.

Military tactics, grand or minor, depend on circumstances of the moment. The successful commander is the one who is quick to capitalize any favorable development.

Thus one can see that the reported revolt in Holland and Belgium might spread and create a situation that would compel not only Hitler but the allies to alter prepared plans. Mind you, I'm not predicting anything, because we haven't enough facts to go on, but even if the present revolt dies out, there still will remain the threat of a continent-wide upheaval at any time.

The question uppermost in the minds of most military chiefs and observers is when will the allies be able to invade France across the English Channel? That's likely to be the decisive operation which will crush the life out of Hitler.

Speculation

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—Speculation as to the fate of three American warships which "vanished" in the Java sea more than a year ago was revived today by the Navy's first prisoner list which showed some men off all three vessels were captives of Japan.

Until the release of the names of Navy men held prisoners by the Japanese, there had been no official hint concerning the fate of the cruiser Houston, the destroyer Pope, and the submarine Perch, which "disappeared" after the disastrous battle of the Java sea.

The Navy's first prisoner list, which last night named a total of 1,044 officers and men held by the Japanese, included seven men last recorded assigned to the Houston; two from the destroyer Pope, and two from the submarine Perch.

Baby Runs Into Path of Backing Automobile; Is Fatally Injured

Joey, baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Miller, 208 First street, met a tragic death Thursday afternoon a few minutes after 4 o'clock, when he was struck by an automobile operated by his grandfather, Joe E. Miller, at the garage just east of the family home. The child ran into the garage entrance directly in the pathway of a car which his grandfather was backing out of the building.

The rear of the car struck the child, knocking him down and fracturing his skull. The mother of the child was near the garage entrance and picked up the unconscious boy, and placed him in a car, removing him to the hospital

New Offensives by Allies May Result in Calling Fathers

Sen. Wheeler To Seek Blanket Deferment for All Sires

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The nation's fathers were caught in a tug-of-war between the executive and legislative branches of the government today, with the former apparently seeking to pull them into military service soon and the latter starting a move to hold them out—at least until next year.

With impending new allied offensives hinting that a call for thousands of more fighting men might soon be in order, the Army extended the furlough period given new inductees from seven to 14 days and directed that it be increased to three weeks by Sept. 1. The two weeks' extension is to be put into effect as soon as possible, and in no case later than July 1.

Although no reason was given for the move, other than that one week caused hardships "in some cases," it was understood that the war department felt fathers would need more time than single or childless married men to settle their personal and business affairs when inducted. Thus, the announcement was interpreted as

Japs Offer Reward For Yankee Fliers

With the U. S. Air Force in China, May 14.—(AP)—A reward of 10,000 yen for the capture, dead or alive, of any member of the U. S. medium bombardment group based in China, which group has carried out more than 70 raids against Japanese bases in the last year, was offered today in a Tokyo broadcast heard here.

(The yen no longer is quoted on the foreign exchange market. Before the war it was valued at 23 cents.)

Since the recent heavy raids broadcast on Hainan, Haipong and Canton, the Tokyo radio has been shouting threats that the Japanese would destroy all American-Chinese airports and would wipe out Chungking, Kunming and other important Chinese cities. To these threats the response of the fighter pilots has been: "let them come. All we want is a chance to knock more of them out of the skies."

Members of the medium squadron, eight of whom were in on the Tokyo raid, got a big kick out of the reward offer. Several of them even tried to borrow money on the strength of it.

There were no takers.

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The allied air forces of North Africa destroyed approximately 2,000 enemy planes while losing about 770 in the six months and three days between the landings in French North Africa and the collapse of axis resistance May 11.

The war department reported today that in the first 11 days of May alone the score was 300 axis planes destroyed against 49 allied aircraft, a ratio of 6 to 1, and added that from May 7—the day Tunis and Bizerte fell—the enemy air arm literally danced to the allies' tune, losing approximately 11 planes for every allied plane brought down.

From Nov. 8 to Apr. 18, 16,236,390 pounds of bombs were dropped in 386 attacks on enemy targets. In addition, allied warplanes during the first five months of the campaign sank 50 enemy ships, severely damaged 68 and damaged 73.

Large Number of Axis Prisoners in Africa To Be Brought Here

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he assumed that quite a large number of the hordes of axis prisoners captured in Tunisia would be brought to the United States.

However, he told a press conference, plans are not yet complete for sending them to this or any other country.

As for reports that German and Italian prisoners might be used for farm work in this country, Roosevelt said he thought it was better to take up first the problem of getting them out of Africa, which involves transportation, feeding and security.

A reporter raised the question whether any distinction is being made between Italian and German prisoners, and the chief executive replied that maybe there is a safety factor involved in separating them from each other.

Prices of All Soaps Standardized by OPA

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The prices of all soaps, washing powders, and cleaners were standardized today by the Office of Price Administration.

Part of a program to put all cost of living items on a flat ceiling basis, the order listed hundreds of soap items and the maximum price for each, according to the type of store. Stores were classified into four groups—two for small independents, one for smaller chain outfits, and one for large volume stores, whether chain or independent.

For instance, the top price on Lux soap is set at 8 cents for the small independents, and 7 cents for the chains and large stores.

Expect Hitler to Begin Desperate Efforts in Russia

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler probably will make a desperate attempt to win some spectacular victory over Russia in the next few weeks, qualified authorities predicted today, in order to offset the loss of prestige and morale which Germany suffered as a result of the route of her armies in North Africa.

This likelihood was regarded as posing a current and to some extent urgent problem for President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and their military advisers, carrying their strategy conferences here into the third day.

The conferees themselves remained silent about the nature and progress of their discussions.

The president told his press conference today there is nothing helpful he can say now about their talks since they are still in the conference stage. He said he thought there would be no developments until Churchill's visit is practically over but he did not disclose when that would be.

He did say that he thought he would ask the prime minister to join him at a press conference, perhaps next week.

The president said he was suggesting to reporters that the "lid" be put on between now and Monday morning, since nothing important would occur in the interim, and the joint conferences would continue in the meanwhile.

Churchill Broadcasts Today

Later in the day Churchill will broadcast to England on the anniversary of the British Home Guard, but this is expected to be almost entirely for his homeland's consumption. Next Wednesday the prime minister is to address congress and he may give some word then on what lies ahead.

Speculation here continued to cover a wide field of possibilities, revolving principally around the prospects of an early invasion of Europe and a speed-up of the tempo of war in the Pacific.

It was in connection with the invasion talk that probable German reaction to the defeat in Tunisia assumed greatest significance. There are several things Hitler might try to bolster the shaken confidence of his own people, restore the prestige of his government among satellite nations and discourage as far as possible the rebelliousness born of hope in conquered countries.

May Try to Bomb U. S.

One of these, as military authorities on the American east coast have repeatedly warned, would be a long range bombing attack on New York, Washington or some other city which his big planes might reach on a suicide mission. Another possibility would be to try to stage a few extremely heavy raids on London as evidence that the luftwaffe still has the power to strike offensively.

But the only place where the German army can strike is in Russia, and it is there that the blow is believed to be most likely to fall. The Germans might launch a major new offensive this spring in the south, drive to get within seige distance of Moscow or throw all their available weight into a new campaign to capture Leningrad at the northern end of the battle line.

Question of New Front

For the British and American commands this would appear to raise once more the question of commitments to give all possible help to Russia by attacking Germany's western European front.

Churchill has informed Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek that "the day will come when we shall rejoice x x x at feats of arms of the United Nations which will surely drive the Japanese invaders from the soil of China."

The British leader was replying to a message of congratulation from the Chinese generalissimo on the allied victory in Africa.

His words served to underscore indications that he and Roosevelt, in their strategy conferences,

Report Rioting in Germany as Unrest Spreads in Europe

Dutch Warned by Their Government Against Premature Revolt

London, May 14.—(AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria has sent an urgent appeal to Adolf Hitler for additional secret police units as protection against internal disturbances, reports reaching allied governments said today.

These advices said it was understood that the Gestapo chief himself, Heinrich Himmler, was hurrying to Sofia.

There was no information, however, on whether concerted outbreaks had occurred.

Meanwhile indications that trouble might be brewing in France were seen in reports of a recent Gestapo roundup of some 200 members of the Vichy government said to have been suspected of communicating with French resistance groups or allied agents.

It also was asserted that Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, German naval commander in chief, had moved his headquarters from Paris to Kiel, Germany, because he felt unsafe in France.

Dutch Are Warned

German-occupied Holland, seething with unrest, had a warning from its exiled government today that premature revolution would lead only to crushing German retaliation before it could grow into large-scale underground warfare.

The official hint that the time is not yet ripe for wide-spread uprisings coincided with reports of spreading violence in both Holland and Belgium, and a Swedish newspaper reported that rioting had occurred in Berlin itself.

Radio Orange, mouthpiece of the exiled Netherlands government, warned the homeland that a widely-distributed circular urging the Dutch to register in an underground movement "to help the British troops liberate you people" is a German plot "to incite Netherlands violence over the shortest period possible and to break it most forcibly so that the consequent terror regime and the German plans may be executed without further disturbance."

"Resistance is only good if it

Army Joins Fight On Arkansas Flood

Little Rock, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—The Army joined the lower Arkansas river valley's flood-wise inhabitants today in combating the surly stream that poured the greatest flood in its history across hundreds of thousands of acres and battered against straining levees.

General service engineer troops, augmented by 3,500 basic trainees from Camp Robinson, and pontoon engineers, took up the fight at a half-dozen danger points below here and at other spots along the White river in eastern Arkansas.

Their mission was to reinforce the earthen bulwarks protecting river communities and thousands of acres planted to cotton, food and feed crops.

Lowland dwellers already had completed their exodus. The loss to crops and property was heavy. Upstream, where the U. S. engineers had abandoned hope of saving main levees in Arkansas, the river left ruin and death. Six known deaths were recorded in Oklahoma and 22 persons still were unaccounted for in that state where the stream was falling rapidly. More than 500,000 acres, according to U. S. engineers' estimates, were under water which still was spreading as the crest moved toward Little Rock.

and would have a calamitous effect on industry.

The effect on labor, he said, will be "subsidies, money grants and finally force to maintain government control."

"The effect on the farmers x x x will be such regimentation and control as Henry Wallace foresaw when he said it would take a police force of half a million men to keep down agricultural racketeering and that every plowed field would have to have its permit displayed on its post," he continued.

"There will be no small business left except that controlled and regimented by the bureaucrats."

Divided Commands Remain in Pacific Area After Confad

Allied Headquarters in Australia, May 14.—(AP)—Command of the vast operations intended ultimately to roll the Japanese back to Tokyo remains divided, but in a spirit of perfect coordination, between Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., and General Douglas MacArthur, a spokesman for the general said today.

His comment was in response to questions concerning a dispatch from an advanced South Pacific base which disclosed that the two high ranking officers had conferred here recently.

(In the dispatch, Associated Press war correspondent Leif Erickson quoted a spokesman for Admiral Halsey as explaining that offensive and defensive moves against the Japanese in both the Southwest and South Pacific are in charge of General MacArthur, but that Halsey's South Pacific naval force remained a part of the Pacific Fleet under Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.)

Today the spokesman for General MacArthur said the command situation was the same as it had been, two areas and two commanders—the Southwest Pacific under MacArthur, the South Pacific under Halsey.

MacArthur Responsible

(A later dispatch from Erickson, however, quoted the South Pacific headquarters spokesman as reiterating that MacArthur "has been and will be responsible for the South and Southwest Pacific theaters in joint operations.")

(The dispatch explained that while this was the status of command in the two areas, actually MacArthur has not yet directed any major operation in the South Pacific as he has been too much occupied in the Australia-New Guinea field and Halsey has had to act independently as circumstances dictated.)

(The war department in Washington listed Australia, New Guinea, New Britain, New Ireland and the northern end of the Solomons in the Southwest Pacific command; the southern end of the Solomons and islands to the east such as New Caledonia, New Hebrides, Fiji and New Zealand in the South Pacific command.)

The spokesman for General MacArthur said he and the admiral are "kindred souls and understand each other perfectly."

On the fighting front, General MacArthur's communique reported a heavy allied raid on the air-drome at Gasmata, New Britain, a harmless raid by two Japanese bombers on Port Moresby, New Guinea, and the killing between May 9 and 12 of 95 enemy soldiers in jungle clashes south of Salamaua.

NEW STORY OF COURAGE

Headquarters, Seventh Airforce, South Pacific, May 14.—(AP)—"All United States planes returned to their base" read the routine communique on the Seventh Airforce raid on Nauru, but that doesn't tell the desperate, gallant story of Lieut. Russell A. Phillips' Liberator bomber crew which

Rejected

Edwardsville, Ill., May 14.—(AP)—The Madison county board of supervisors voted yesterday to reject Ben F. Wood's $14,400 salary claim as county treasurer for the four years he did not serve. State's Attorney W. C. Burton told the board that under an Illinois state Supreme Court decision the county was not legally liable.

Wood, an Edwardsville Republican, made the claim on the ground the state supreme court last September declared him to winner of the 1938 election and he didn't have time to qualify before the 4-year term expired. After the election Democrat Harry T. Hartman was declared the winner by 120 votes and served the term.

Yankees and Japs Locked in Battle on Island of Attu

U. S. Troops Landed on Base West of Kiska in Force Tuesday

BULLETIN
Washington, May 14.—(AP)—American fighter planes shot down 16 of 25 Japanese Zeros engaged in a furious air battle over the Russell islands in the Solomon group, the Navy reported today.

Five United States planes were lost but two of the pilots were saved.

The communique told also of heavy bombing raids on Japanese installations at Kahlili and Ballale islands in the northern Solomons.

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The United States has launched the long-expected attack to drive Japan out of the Aleutian islands.

American troops landed on the island of Attu on Tuesday, the Navy announced today, and were met by Japanese of unknown strength.

They are locked in battle now. The situation still is not clear, but United States air and sea forces presumably are participating in an all-out bid for early decision.

The landing was announced in Navy communique number 376, which said:

North Pacific:
"1. On May 11th United States forces landed at the island of Attu in the Aleutians, and are now engaged with Japanese forces on the island. Details of the operation will be released when the situation clarifies."

Naval spokesman declined to go beyond the limits of this bare announcement or offer any comment on the course of the fighting.

The size of the enemy's garrison on Attu is not known but it is believed to be smaller than the approximately 10,000 troops reported on Kiska island, east of Attu.

There was no indication today that any attack had been made on Kiska and this led to speculation that the United States maneuver was designed to outflank the more strongly held enemy base and if possible place its garrison in an almost untenable position before attacking there.

Is Jap Supply Point

Attu has been used as a supply point for Kiska and presumably American possession of Attu would greatly reduce Kiska's usefulness to the enemy as a potential airbase and a submarine operating base.

Possession of Attu would give the American Aleutians command of a weather observation station west of Kiska—a fact of supreme importance in the Aleutians where weather is most constant single problem which airmen and seamen face. Heretofore the advantage has been all with the Japanese because the weather moves from west to east and they knew what conditions would be when United States forces could not know.

Possession of Attu, provided it reduces the Japanese garrison on Kiska to impotence and puts American forces in position to knock out Kiska speedily, would afford an American base within 630 nautical miles of Japan's great base of Paramushiro which is at the northern end of the Kuriles island extending between Japan proper and Russia's Kamchatka peninsula.

REPORTED BY TOKYO

New York, May 14.—(AP)—The Tokyo radio reported today that strong United States forces had landed on Attu island in the Aleutians on May 12 and that severe fighting is now in progress.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the landings had been announced by Japanese Imperial headquarters.

Attu is one of the two principal bases of the Japanese at the western tip of the Aleutians and has been bombed repeatedly by U. S. airmen.

The OWI said the text of a Japanese Imperial headquarters communique, broadcast to Japanese areas and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, announced:

"Imperial headquarters communique, May 14, at 4 p. m. (2 a. m. Central War Time): crack American forces began landing on Atsuta (Attu) island of the Aleutians May 12. Our forces on the

FOUR PEOPLE -- four words -- four missing --

"Johnny's been shipped out" . . . four words! The news went from Johnny's mother to Johnny's married sister who phoned Johnny's sweetheart, Mabel. Mabel ran into one of Johnny's old college professors on a crowded street corner next day and told him about it . . . four people. All of them were intelligent, loyal Americans who would have died before betraying a secret to the enemy. It wasn't their fault that the fifth person to get the news was an enemy agent who heard the street corner remark and happened to know who Johnny was and what division he was with. That little piece of information alone didn't mean much, but it wasn't the agent's job to figure it out. He just turned it in to the files -- files which contained other bits of information such as the fact that Johnny's whole division had recently been inoculated for tropical diseases. Pieces of the jigsaw fitted together . . . and the planned attack was blown up by enemy subs lying in wait. Official lists said . . . four men missing. In some other story it might have been four hundred missing! Nobody gave vital information -- BUT THE PIECES FITTED TOGETHER. Don't repeat anything about the "where, how, when, how many of what kind" of war matters unless you hear it on the radio or read it in your newspaper first!

GEMS OF THOUGHT
DESIRES
Our nature is inseparable from desires, and the very word desire—the craving for something not possessed—implies that our present felicity is not complete.
—Thomas Hobbes
There is nothing capricious in nature; and the implanting of a desire indicates that its gratification is in the constitution of the creature that feels it.
—Emerson.
A wise man will desire no more than he may get justly, use soberly, distribute cheerfully, and leave contentedly.
—Richard E. Burton
Happiness consists in the attainment of our desires, and in having only right desires.
—Augustine
Desire is prayer; and no loss can occur from trusting God with our desires, that they may be moulded and exalted before they take form in words and in deeds.
—Mary Baker Eddy
Therefore I (Jesus) say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.
—Mark 11:24.

Authority of the Church Develops When Philip Goes to the Samaritans

Text: Acts 8:14-25

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of Advance

The spirit of Christianity soon began to manifest itself following the great events of the Day of Pentecost and the virtual founding of the Christian church. It quickened a zeal that brought the disciples in conflict with the constituted religious authorities in such a way that Jesus had aroused hostility to Himself. But the fruits of the life and work of Jesus and the events in connection with His death and resurrection had already modified the opposition to a great extent. Gamaliel, a respected Jewish leader of the time, had wisely counseled a cautious attitude. He pointed out that various movements had arisen and that their work had come to nothing. Nevertheless the persecution was sufficient to drive some of the disciples from Jerusalem, and it had the effect of spreading the Gospel more quickly and more widely than might have been the case if there had been no such incentive.

The spirit of Christianity also was already breaking down barriers and prejudices, and Philip, a devout layman, determined that he would go and preach the Gospel message to the Samaritans. The Jews, it must be remembered, had no dealings with the Samaritans, and the surprise of these disciples will be remembered when they came to the well outside the city of Sychar and found their Master conversing with a Samaritan woman.

This woman had gone into the city and witnessed concerning Jesus, "Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did; is not this the Christ?" and the Gospel record is that not only upon her testimony but when the people came from the city and saw Jesus for themselves they believed on Him.

A groundwork for Philip had evidently been already laid, and his preaching among the Samaritans had such success that the word of it came to Jerusalem.

Authority was already developing in the early church; and whether it was to check up on a sort of official way upon what Philip was doing or whether the saints at Jerusalem wished to encourage the work that Philip was doing, Peter and John were sent from Jerusalem into Samaria. They were evidently well impressed, although they did not find the Christians fully confirmed.

A jarring but very important note is in our lesson in the story of Simon the Sorcerer, a type of the fakir, semi-faker, or men of mixed motives and outward sincerity, who have been parasites upon religious movements through all the history of religion.

The sin of Simon—that is, the use of religion for monetary gain or personal profit—takes the name from this sorcerer, who professed Christian conversion but whose sincerity seems to have been rather doubtful, even after his ostensible conversion. Nothing but a thoroughgoing change of heart can effect a real conversion in a man whose chief motive in life is personal profit and not that of Christian sincerity and Christian love.

A Thought For Today

Out of heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might instruct thee; and upon earth he shewed thee his great fire; and though heardest his words out of the midst of the fire.—Deuteronomy 4:36.

Yet hold it more humane, more heavenly first, by winning words to conquer willing hearts, and make persuasion do the work of fear.—Milton.

Protecting Society

There are persistent and believable reports that Fanderer Willie Bioff and his erstwhile boss, George Browne, are not serving their 10 and 8-year sentences, respectively, in prison, but are in the Federal House of Detention in New York, which is much more pleasant than—for example—Leavenworth.

This is offensive to many who feel that the two movie and theatrical union racketeers should be punished up to the hilt for their crimes against Society and betrayal of their union constituents. With that sentiment, we sympathize wholeheartedly. But there is another side to the case. It is this:

The two criminals were front men for a Chicago mob known as the Syndicate, which, under leadership of the late unlamented Frank "the Enforcer" Nitti, grew out of the Capone gang after Scarface Al was sent to the penitentiary.

There is reason to believe that Bioff and Browne know enough about the Syndicate's racketeering activities to enable the New York U. S. Attorney, Mathias F. Correa, to convict the really big shots and break up their vicious rackets.

Anybody who ever has been close to major criminal prosecutions knows that such mobs can not be reached except with the co-operation of insiders. The testimony of such insiders—let's say of Bioff and Browne in this instance—would not be enough to convict. But without it, usually, conviction is impossible.

Let's suppose it is true the two B's have been detained by the government where they can not be reached by intimidators or by suborners of perjury, in order that they might testify before the grand jury in New York, which has indicted enough Chicago gangsters to break up the Syndicate—and, later, that they might testify against those gangsters in open court.

That raises the question whether the public welfare will be served best by enforcing the utmost punishment on two cheap thugs whose capacity for serious evil has been destroyed or by breaking up a mob that is actively engaged in major criminal rackets in the Midwest, and that can not otherwise be destroyed.

As much as we despise Bioff and Browne, we're for using them to convict their masters and bust up the Chicago Syndicate for good and all.

Voice of the Press

WHY FARMERS DO OR DON'T BUY BONDS

(Drovers Journal)

Farmers will buy more war bonds than they have been when they have been sold on the function bonds can play in meeting post-war problems. This conclusion was reached as a result of a recent survey of farm people in two groups of four counties each of equal economic levels.

Other conclusions are: Farmers generally are sold on putting excess income into bonds; farmers who haven't bought say they have inadequate income or have debts to pay; farmers who are worried about the post-war situation are less likely to buy bonds than those who are less worried; farmers like a yardstick to enable them to determine individual purchases for depreciation reserves and for liquid assets for future needs; they are probably more apt to invest in bonds when the self-interest motives—reserves for future needs—are emphasized.

It is natural that farmers—or any economic group for that matter—should of necessity look to their future livelihood before entering wholeheartedly into any investment program, however worthy that program may be. Constant juggling of farm problems, threats of live animal ceilings, draining of labor from the farms and numerous red tape measures all serve to confuse the future and make for uncertainty.

The government put itself on record as knowing the facts, and if it would have farmers buy even more war bonds, it might try clarifying the issues, or better yet, leave farmers alone to do the job they have proved they can and will do.

They're Not Forgotten

It is comforting to those at home to read, buried here and there in news accounts or sometimes in front page headlines, about the lengths to which the armed services will go to rescue a single man or a little group that has been lost somewhere.

When Lieut. Tom Thayer bailed out over North African mountains and was lost, three plane scouting parties were sent to look for him. When the nine-man crew of a Fortress was lost on the Greenland icecap, thousands of dollars and the lives of three would-be rescuers were spent before Bernt Balchen got most of the flyers to safety.

Life is cheap in battle. No good commander can count one life, or thousands, against an objective that will contribute to beating the axis. But when opportunity offers that will not endanger the greater goal, no effort is spared to look after every man.

Bang, Bang!

Reports from Army maneuvers in Tennessee tell us that the soldiers are running out of blank shells and cartridges, which are no longer being manufactured. The blanks are used to give verisimilitude—which is to say, realism—to mock battling.

Most of the trainees have heard bombs, mines and demolition charges already, and it won't matter so much if they do have to shoot down enemies by pointing a gun and saying, firmly, "Bang! Bang! You're dead!" like small boys playing in the alleys.

Global Time

One eventual outcome of this war might be what Western Air Lines, adopting the 24-hour clock, calls "global time." This is the logical system in use already by the armed services and Pan American air lines, which starts at 1 o'clock and winds up with 23 o'clock.

Changeover to the system would have both advantages and disadvantages. One of the former is that it would do away with the major difficulty in reading transportation time tables. There would be no more dark face for p. m. and light face for a. m. An hour after midnight would be 1 o'clock, while an hour after noon would be 13 o'clock.

Italy Won't

Berlin says that Rome newspapers have suggested that captured American and British airmen be executed, in Japanese fashion, in reprisal for a raid in which they participated against a suburb of Rome.

This is just talk. The Italians are made of different stuff than the Japs. They are fundamentally civilized. They have a sense of justice. And—unlike the Japs—they would be deterred by concern about the welfare of their men who are our prisoners.

Major-General Doolittle pledges raids till the Japs beg for mercy—which they are not entitled to.

People who brag about being overbright are the ones likely to get polished off.

Scientists agree that a bee can't see red. But they have a way of making humans see it.

One of the first sure signs of summer is "keep off the grass."

A refrigerator is where you put dishes containing food when you don't want to wash them.

are you going to do the first time some young junior officer wants to call you Beth? And, by the way, are you going to continue this darned formality all the time with me? You know, out here in the theater of operations, we don't play that way. We leave that for the garrison soldiers—God bless them, and I'm not casting any slurs at them, either. If there's anything more aggravating than being a garrison soldier, it's being a desk soldier, and both of them pray night and day for a chance to go to the field. I know, because I've been all three kinds of a soldier at one time or another.

BETH did not know how to answer.

Finally she said, "I'd find out the ground rules from my commanding officer."

"You're smarter than I gave you credit for being," Jackson said. "Well, the ground rules here are that military courtesy is observed, but not to any ridiculous extreme. We live in a very close area, so we salute when we meet for the first time during the day, and then don't salute any more unless there is a special reason. We're something like a submarine crew out here. You know, in a submarine discipline is, if anything, stricter than on a surface vessel; yet the unpractised eye would have a hard time recognizing rank."

He paused. Then he continued, "This lecture sums itself up to this," he said. "Unless it's very official and in front of a lot of people, call me Brit. And I'll call you Beth. You've proved yourself to me, and I hope I can to you."

"Thanks—" Just as she was about to say "Brit," she heard a woman's voice.

"Why, Brit darling, imagine finding you here."

Brit turned sharply, startled. So did Beth. Coming toward them down the bowered path was a young woman in a gay afternoon dress, in strong contrast to the uniformed population of the island.

Fair Enough

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

Los Angeles—I have a letter on the stationery of the Selective Service System, local board No. 3, Washington county, Pa., signed Charles D. Seaton. He represents that he is a member of the board with jurisdiction over the classification of Joseph Yablonski of California, Pa., a burglar, who is a member of the international executive board, or national governing body, of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. This burglar is also chairman of rationing board No. 6 of Washington county, Pa.

Yablonski, who is 32 years old and physically strong, was very active in the recent coal strike. At one point during the sabotage he remarked proudly, "the coal that will be mined today can all be sold at one small corner drug store". He is a member of the Lewis faction in an area where there has been great rank and file opposition to the big boss. He was elected to the international executive board with the support of the national office although his record as a criminal was thoroughly publicized and doubtless well known to Lewis.

The letter from Seaton says the local draft board is gravely concerned with the "atmosphere of trickery and shallowness that you have tried to create in your article with respect to the operation of selective service in their classification of registrants."

"I am permitted to say," writes Seaton, "that Yablonski lives in a family relationship with his wife and two minor children born well within the limits as prescribed by selective service for dependents."

The dispatch which Seaton desires to challenge did not concern itself seriously with the question of dependency as a ground for deferment of this criminal. On the contrary it observed that "dependency would be a minor claim", in his case, inferior to his claim for deferment enjoyed in furthering the war effort. His helpfulness in the maintenance of good labor relations and the prosecution of the war was demonstrated in the walkout of a large number of miners at California, Pa., his immediate bailiwick, during the recent defiance of the national government. He also helped maintain good labor relations and to advance the preparations for war by assisting Lewis in the captive coal-mine strike in 1941, shortly before Pearl Harbor, in which issue was a demand for a closed shop.

In that case President Roosevelt gave a solemn assurance to the non-union miners and to the nation as a whole, amounting to a vow, that he would not order nor would congress enact any law imposing the closed shop and adding, gratuitously, that such would be Hitler's way. A few weeks later, in violation of this vow, President Roosevelt did adopt Hitler's way and the non-union miners were delivered into the control of a man with a police record of numerous entries, including a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and a jail sentence for this crime.

Such, then, is the actual validity of Yablonski's right to deferment as a union boss, and not as a petty local gangster either, but as one who occupies in the Mine Workers a position equal to that of a member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. He is, thanks to the support of the John L. Lewis faction, a big shot in the Mine Workers by reason of an election which was denounced by reputable officials of the union as "the most disgraceful campaigning in the history of the UMW", which was taking in a lot of territory.

As to the validity of any claim of dependency which may have been made by Yablonski the dispatch which Seaton has challenged set forth that Yablonski's attitude toward his family responsibility had in the past been casual as cited.

The fact is that in April 1936 he was not supporting his wife and one minor child and therefore was ordered by the court to pay six dollars a week. If another child has since appeared Yablonski's responsibility would now appear to be nine dollars a week, an amount which he might provide as a soldier. He gets $500 a month as a unioneer.

Although Seaton emphasizes the dubious claim of dependency by a man once prosecuted for non-support, he insists nevertheless that his burglar neighbor, who, accidentally, is a man of power in the union terror which rules the community, is by law and regulation sentenced to special consideration for deferment as a union boss. This, although Yablonski's union activities have been such as to help reduce the coal output to an amount which could be sold in a drug store. I can't argue with Seaton on that point. Like it or lump it that is the law and the regulation.

Apart from such questions there remains the fact, astounding no doubt to most decent Americans, that this criminal, because of his power as a unioneer, could be selected chairman of his rationing board, a federal position

Washington.—Mud, more than exhaustion, is still holding back both sides in Russia.

Yet it is only a matter of days now until the Reds and nazis will be at their respective throats again on the eastern front. The ground on the central and northern fronts generally firms sufficiently for military operations by the end of May or the first of June.

The southern-tip bridgehead which Hitler has persistently maintained east of the Kerch Straits obviously has suggested his spring or summer campaign would be directed toward retrieving Caucasus oil, but perhaps too obviously. He tried for that oil once and failed.

The bridgehead does not actually afford important military advantage for another blow in that direction, as the bulk of his invading troops would have to come around the land route past Rostov in any event.

Far more likely it is that Hitler will strive to deliver a knockout blow directly at the soviets. If he could get Leningrad or Moscow, for instance, he could not only retrieve lost prestige, but strike at the heart of soviet military power.

The southern front and the bridgehead across the Kerch could be maintained to divert the Russians from time to time and prevent them from concentrating all their strength to meet his expected blows in the north.

The southern front involves great distances while a blow at Leningrad and Moscow would require a much smaller concentration of force.

The common assumption that Franco was speaking for Hitler in pleading for peace is not necessarily so. Hitler knows very well he could not get any acceptable terms from anyone under existing conditions, and is hardly so stupid as to ask.

But peace is essential to Franco. Unless he can get one based on something like the existing status quo in Europe, he is going to have a nice, little revolution on his hands. And he will not get any help this time, at least not on the scale he obtained formerly from Hitler, as der fuhrer will need everything he has and more, to meet his own forthcoming military obligations.

Franco, therefore, was probably speaking for himself—and not very confidently.

The nazi northern Tunisia army surrendered 25,000 men to us. About 80,000 more were bottled on the Cap Bon peninsula. Around 110,000 Germans and Italians surrendered or met death after Rommel's retreat from Tripoli up to tion of great responsibility and trust.

Another fact of interest is that Lewis' criminal subordinate and henchman recently has been driving a new Buick, allowed no doubt in obedience to the OPA's political dictum that union gangsters deserve, for their help, in the war effort, in addition to exemption from the draft, special considerations in the allotment of cars, tires and gasoline. As chairman of the rationing board, of course, the burglar's own opinion would have considerable weight in the board's decision on his requirements.

Deaths

HARRY WOOD
Kansas City, May 14.—(AP)—Harry Wood, 72, often called the father of the newspaper comic strip and a member of the Kansas City Star's art staff for half a century, died today.

Wood had been away from his drawing desk for three months because of illness.

In 1907 he started the doings of the "Intellectual Pup", a Sunday feature which is believed to have been the beginning of present day newspaper strips.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER LUNCHEON HELD IN FRANKLIN GROVE

Sixty-eight mothers, daughters and friends of the Church of the Brethren of Franklin Grove, gathered at their church the evening of May 12, to enjoy the annual mother-daughter luncheon. They were received in a beautifully decorated dining room of the church basement, lighted overhead by blue light and augmented by candlelight on the tables. The tables were arranged to form the "M" for mother, with the speakers' table at the base. The tables were decorated to represent Mother's flower garden, with nutcups and napkins carrying out the same thought. The programs were enclosed in covers in the shape of large "D" in honor of the daughters present.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Alma Fair, president of the Woman's Work department of the church, gave a welcome address and disposed of several items of business. Following this, the group joined in singing together. Miss Jane Seimans gave a toast to the mothers following Mrs. Elsie Wellard's talk on poems, scripture and prayer. Mrs. Bessie Wendell sang; Mrs. Seimans, toast to the daughters; Misses Thelma and Darlene Fair, piano duet; Mesdames Jeanne Nelson and Neva Parks, a poem; Miss Barbara Kohl entertained with a piano solo. All of the numbers were well rendered and greatly enjoyed by the guests. Mrs. Coner closed with benediction and a few words of appreciation.

The committee in charge of the luncheon was: Mrs. Joe Reynolds, Mrs. Ethel Beeghley and Mrs. Harold Parks. The committee in charge of serving included: Mrs. Mary Miller, Mrs. Bernice Underhill and Mrs. Nina Pfoutz.

SCRAMBLE SUPPER

Members of the Highland Avenue club enjoyed a scramble supper at the home of Mrs. Albert Petit Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock, with bunco planned for the evening's entertainment following the supper, with prizes going to Mrs. John Bennett, Mrs. J. C. Lyons, and Mrs. Albert Lindsay. The club will conclude the season's activities in June, with a dinner at one of the tea rooms. Plans are to be announced at a later date.

IDEAL CLUB

Mrs. Mary Gilson was hostess to the Ideal club Wednesday afternoon in which members responded to roll call with "Origin of Popular Sayings." Mrs. L. W. Miller reviewed chapters of "Look to the Mountain" by LeGrand Cannon, Jr. Refreshments were served by the hostess during the following social hour.

BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Victor Eichler of 823 East Fellows, entertained her bridge club yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Roney winning first prize and Mrs. Leland Shoaf winning second. A delicious dessert was served by the hostess at the close of play.

The dinner will honor other members of the family who have birthdays also.

READING CLUB

The Thursday Reading club met with Mrs. Henry Hintz this week for their regular meeting. Mrs. L. W. Miller had the paper for the afternoon on "The Pipe Line to Victory." The outline of Mrs. Miller's paper was: "Workers have punched through fourteen thousand miles of sand and swamp to build the world's largest and longest pipe line, and that soon it will gush 12,500,000 gallons of oil from Texas to the east coast." Guessing games were arranged for the afternoon, and Mrs. Alfred Tice sang two vocal numbers. Twenty-four were present, and plans were made for the next meeting, which will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Alfred Tice.

HOME BUREAUS

Dixon Afternoon Home Bureau and Palmyra units met in a joint meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. J. McLean. Mrs. Norman Dietrich of the Palmyra unit and Mrs. Ted Hughes of the Dixon unit gave the lesson "Yeast Bread." A demonstration was given on Graham bread. There were eleven members of the Palmyra unit present, and five members of the Dixon unit, and two guests present. The Dixon unit is to meet with Mrs. Edward Schick in June, and the Palmyra unit is to meet with Mrs. Joseph E. Law.

VICTORY GARDENERS SHOULD CHECK JAR SUPPLY NOW

If you have taken on the very real responsibility of a Victory garden this year, you had better check your jar supply right now and figure out approximately how many more jars you are going to need to preserve the fruits—and the vegetables—of your labor.

There have been many prophecies of a probable glass jar and metal lid shortage this summer when the canning season reaches its peak. It's true that these prophecies are always followed by vigorous denials and accompanied by announcements of a new and practically fail-proof jar and closure that are to be made available in large quantities, but just the same it's a good idea for home canners who are going to have fruits and vegetables coming right along to calculate their new season's requirements carefully and get needed new supplies at once.

It's also a good idea to have the children search cellar and attic for every available jar and top—and of course never fail to check through any metal salvage that leaves your house, for your precious metal screw bands may look very tempting to zealous scrap collectors.

As long as the jars are not cracked or nicked, they can always be used again, but don't ever try to re-use any rubber rings. It's very poor economy to risk spoiling food, so turn all the old rubber rings in for scrap and use nothing but brand-new freshly sterilized rings on every jar you fill.

Don't wait until you're swamped by a "surplus" from your garden and then go out frantically to collect your canning paraphernalia at the last minute.

Plan now to can as much as possible week by week—or even day by day—as each particular fruit or vegetable reaches the peak of condition, and be sure to buy your full quota of sugar every month, whether you need it at the moment or not.

Don't think it's unpatriotic to redeem your coupons and save the sugar ahead of time—for the main idea is to preserve as much of our fruits and vegetables as possible for the winter months, so that nothing is allowed to go to waste.

So buy your sugar and plan your canning program well ahead of time. Write to the United States Beet Sugar Association, Washington, D. C. now and ask for the latest material on Home Canning. Then you'll have all your recipes and instructions ready at hand, as well as your jars, and canning will really be fun.

ARIZONA VISITOR

Lolita Linn, who has many friends in Dixon, and has been a guest many times at Hazelwood, has been following the advice she had given to friends all winter long and finding it good—just relaxing in the Arizona sunshine. She has spent part of her time at the Arizona Biltmore and at Jokers Inn. During her stay in sunny Arizona, she attended the Arizona hotel convention at the Camelback Inn and was one of the guest speakers.

PRAIRIEVILLE UNIT
The Prairieville social circle met Wednesday, May 12, at the Prairieville church to spend the afternoon sewing. The usual business meeting was held for only a small attendance, due to unusual busy times. The readers are asked to watch the Telegraph regarding the meeting in two weeks. If the Red Cross material arrives, surgical dressing will be made at the meeting of May 26.

Big Ten Meet Two-Way Race Between Illini, Michigan

Preliminaries To Start at Northwestern U. This Afternoon

Evanston, Ill., May 14.—(AP)—Michigan and Illinois, who between them have won the Western Conference outdoor track and field meet 30 times in 42 years, begin today what many regard as a strictly two-way fight for the 1943 Big Ten championship.

Michigan, easy winner in the indoor meet but since then beaten in a dual meet by an improved Illinois squad, has carried off the outdoor crown 18 times—four victories coming in the last six years. The Illini have won 12, their last in 1934.

Given only outside consideration in the title contests were Ohio State, defending champion, and Minnesota.

Qualifying trials will be held at Dyche Stadium today beginning at 3 p. m. (CWT). The finals tomorrow will start at 2:30 p. m.

Taking prominence among today's preliminaries will be the 880 yard race, which will present the most congested field of quality runners. Michigan can enter Dave Matthews, John Roxborough, Ross Hume, and maybe Bob Ufer. Illinois has Bill Belle, a freshman who beat Michigan entries in a dual meet, Warren Goodell and Bob Kelley. Ohio State's Johnny Jones also owns a decision over Michigan's Roxborough and Matthews. Still another threat is Ralph Pohland of Minnesota.

Two Champs on Hand

Only two defending champions are expected to be on hand—Dale Dupre of Ohio State in the broad jump and Bob Hodgell of Wisconsin in the high jump.

In addition to the 880, qualifiers also will be determined today in the 100, 220 and 440 yard races, both hurdle events and the broad jump, shot put and discus throw.

The sprinkling of service men expected to compete was reduced by one last night when military authorities at the University of Michigan ruled P. T. Charles Marshall was "too busy" to make the trip here. Marshall, a former Butler University hurdler, is an Army trainee at Michigan and was considered a likely point-winner.

TENNIS CONTEST

Evanston, Ill., May 14.—(AP)—Bob Wasserman, 19-year-old sophomore at Ohio State and one of the best tennis players in the Big Ten in many years, spends his summers watching stars of the game in action. And now his coach believes he may become one himself.

Wasserman has been lucky enough to live only 40 miles from Forest Hills, N. Y., site of the annual national championships. Long ago it became a habit for him to leave his Stamford, Conn., home and roost at the Long Island tennis capital.

By studying the big shots, he tried to capture parts of their game and weave them into a style of his own. Wasserman advanced yesterday to the semi-final round of the conference championship meet, but needed three sets to beat Wisconsin's Hubert Schneider.

Observers consider Wasserman a shoo-in for the singles crown. Ohio State, deadlocked with Northwestern with six points apiece after yesterday's opening rounds, has a chance today to move ahead. The Buckeyes dropped only one of six singles matches, but could pick up only one point in the doubles, while Northwestern, the defending team champion, took two.

Doubles Play

Wasserman and Charles Samson, seeded No. 1 in the doubles first bracket, defeated James Lothrop and Jim Gates of Illinois, 6-3, 6-4. But Aris Franklin and George Hoeflinger lost their match to John Bach and Art Meyer of Northwestern and Alex Franklin and Phil English drew a bye and received no point credit.

If Franklin and English beat Wisconsin's Warren Marlow and Chet Barrard in the semi-finals today, Ohio State would collect two points—enough, perhaps, to decide the crown in the closely-contested tournament.

In the championship singles bracket, Wasserman will meet Lothrop of Illinois; and Roger Downs, a Navy aviation cadet at Northwestern, will face Minnesota's Christ Geanakopolis.

Here's how teams stood going into today's semi-finals:

Northwestern 6; Ohio State 6; Wisconsin 5; Illinois 5; Michigan 4; Minnesota 4; Chicago 3; Purdue 0. Indiana and Iowa did not compete.

The Mosquito, one of the fastest medium bombers in the world, is simply constructed, powered with two liquid-cooled engines, armed with four 20-mm. cannon and four .30-caliber machine guns.

Women's Leagues Play Thursday at Recreation Lanes

By BILL EVANS

In the G. R. O. P. Women's League last night at the Dixon Recreation Lanes, the first place Ordinance Department team lost two of three games to the Operations No. 2 team but still held the league lead by one full game. In the Ordinance - Operations match Buzard of the winners rolled a high series of 457 in games of 165, 114 and 178. Buzard also had the high game of the match with a 178.

The second place Central Calculating team failed to gain on the league leaders as they dropped two of three games to the Purchasing Keglers. Hohn bowled the high series of the match with a 432 in games of 146, 137, and 149. Bohnstiel of the same team rolled the high individual game of the match with a 150.

The Production Department keglers swept three straight games from the Controllers as Kely of the winners bowled a high series of 492 in games of 149, 154, and 189. Kely also rolled a high individual game of the match with a 189.

The last place Operations No. 1 team swept two of three games from the Cafeteria Keglers as Slothower of the Cafeteria team rolled a high series of 485 in games of 164, 179, and 142. Slothower also had a high individual game of 179 in the match.

Managers Durocher and Frisch Staging Unscheduled Race

Baseball Writers Keep Score of Times They Are Bounced

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

The funniest extra curricular contest in the National League is the one the baseball writers are running to keep track of whether Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers or Frank Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates gets put out of the most games this year.

The competition always is close between these two free-wheeling vocalists with first one and then the other capturing the annual award. At present their skirmish is tied, each having been banished once by an umpire this spring.

Frisch was a ba-a-d boy yesterday and got thrown out of the Pirates' pastime with the Dodgers along with his pitcher, Truett (Rip) Sewell, and first baseman Elbie Fletcher. With this central corps gone, it was hardly surprising that Pittsburgh finally was beaten 5-4 in the ninth inning on Joe Medwick's pinch single with the bases loaded.

The game had been tight and heated from the start, with the Dodgers themselves engaging in a couple of rounds with the umpires. But coming into the eighth inning the Buccaneers were in front 4 to 3 and all hands were on deck. Then Dixie Walker tripled and Billy Herman was called safe at first, with two out, on a grounder to the pitcher's box. The tying run scored and the Pirates argued loud enough to be heard in Pittsburgh—to no avail of course.

Durocher was tossed out of a game at Boston a few days ago and fined $75 for impugning an umpire's dignity and Frisch presumably will receive a similar telegram from the office of league president Ford Frick today.

PHILS IN FIRST DIVISION

The other leading development in the senior circuit yesterday was that the Philadelphia Phillies divided a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds and moved into the first division. Old St. Johnson pitched four hit ball in the first game to win 2-1 as Early Naylor hit his third homer. Bert also connected for the circuit for the Reds in the first game and Cincinnati captured the nightcap 3-1. Afterward the Phillies announced the purchase of catcher Babe Phelps from Pittsburgh.

The St. Louis Cardinals reinforced their third place position by beating the Boston Braves 5-0 on the four-hit shutout hurling of Ernie White.

A pinch home run with two on in the ninth inning by Dick Bartell gave the New York Giants a 7-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs after Carl Hubbell had failed to annex his 250th victory in his first start of the season. This put the Cubs and Giants in a tie for seventh.

In the American League all games went extra innings and the Washington Senators set down the Cleveland Indians 3-2 in 12 frames. The Senators were out-hit 7-5, but a pinch double by Gene Moore in the 12th drove in two runs.

The Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers went into overtime for the second straight day and this time the A's won 2-1 in 13 when Dick Siebert singled home the deciding counter. Credit for the victory went to rookie Jesse Flores, his fourth straight.

The Boston Red Sox bounced out of their slump finally to stop the St. Louis Browns 6-4 in 12 stanzas.

480 Prep Athletes Seek Fame in State Track Meet at U. I.

Preliminaries Start Today at University's Memorial Stadium

By LOUIS J. KRAMP

Champaign, Ill., May 14.—(AP)—High school athletes invaded the University of Illinois campus again today, this time to train their sights on a fancy batch of state prep track and field records.

Close to 480 spike-shoed youngsters are expected for the 49th annual interscholastic events starting this afternoon and ending tomorrow. They represent 166 high schools, more than 100 of which send only one or two stars who qualified as first or second finishers in district meets.

They don't attract throngs of rabid fans like those which overflowed Huff Memorial gymnasium at the state basketball tournament in March, but the few spectators sprinkling Memorial Stadium usually find the competition just as spirited.

On the basis of the 83 points with which it swamped strong rivals in the Maywood district, Oak Park appears confident of successfully defending its 1942 team championship, but

SOMEWHERE IN TENNESSEE

Story of Maneuvers of Second United States Army Officially Reported for The Dixon Telegraph

Somewhere in Tennessee—Smoke (simulated) begimed men, rising from their foxholes, move down a cedar-dotted slope with the cautious crouch of the infantryman. . . far back, artillerymen, with feverish haste, feed make-believe shells to huge guns bearing such awe-inspiring names as "Snooks" and "Betty". . . grumbling columns of tanks pous out of the ravines between the hills, and an attack is under way in the Second Army maneuvers.

A white flag flutters suddenly before the defenders' lines. Surrender? No, a similar flag is up before the attackers. It just means that all movement must stop while the maneuver umpires make their decision.

In war, the opposing forces would get their information the hard way. From the blast ahead they could tell what firepower the enemy had, and figure their own by subtracting losses from what they had at the start. Blown-out bridges would be obvious, and so would road blocks.

But you can't let troops fight it out on maneuvers. They get infected with the spirit of the thing, and the medics would have real fractured skulls to patch. And you can't blow up bridges or block roads without stopping essential civilian traffic. So the umpire system was invented, and a flag code devised.

Waving orange flags means that from those spots anti-tank guns are firing. The umpires, one from the tanks, another from the tanks, confer and reach a decision something like this: "The guns are well hidden; the tanks were in the open. The guns opened fire well before the tanks. The tanks are out of action".

A red flag, white center, signifies that artillery fire is falling there and that all men and vehicles within 100 yards are in danger. The umpire assesses casualties based upon figures for this and other wars—a percentage of troops dug in, a larger figure for men caught in the open. Much the same scheme governs an aerial attack.

Now go back to our battle. The umpires for both sides have conferred and reached a decision based upon the number of men, the number and type of their weapons (the range is a factor in this, too), and the relative positions of the opponents. For instance, one side may have flanked the other, a situation which may give the weaker force the advantage. The white flags are removed. In front of the attackers red flags are displayed. That means that this side has superior fire power, enough to advance against entrenched foe, which must retire if attacked. Before the enemy the blue flag, symbol of weakness is shown. He may not advance, and must fall back if attacked.

Or, since the attacker must have superior firepower to move against strong points, the red flag may be posted before both lines. The attacker is stronger, but not by enough. Now he must seek the advantage in some other way—by maneuver, so as to hit the enemy where he is weakest, or where his machine guns cannot be used effectively. Or he may send for reinforcements, or call on his artillery or planes for help.

As for bridge blowing, a retreating force can't just say, "We blew that bridge up". The necessary men and materials must be taken to the scene, and the needed time allowed. And when the pursuers get there, they are told, "You must bring up two truckloads of lumber and forty men. After they get there, you must allow three hours for the work before you can cross". Often the engineers will build a new bridge in less time than would be needed to "repair" the old one.

Road blocks and tank traps must be built, but to avoid stopping essential civilian traffic they are built at the side of the road, and an umpire is stationed there to see that tanks and trucks don't run through.

Troops are not allowed to come into physical contact, so prisoners are assessed on a basis of "This unit would have been captured had the advance been allowed to continue".

Casualties stay right with their units, since otherwise the men would lose valuable training, but the umpires deduct them and their weapons in figuring the relative strength of the opposing forces. To give the medics practice, however, a few men are tagged with labels such as "fractured skull", "stomach wound" and "broken leg". The victim, picked up by litter bearers and given first aid on the field of battle, goes back to battalion aid station, collecting company and evacuation hospital—where his bandages are taken off and he is sent back to work.

husbands. Ninety per cent of the women have volunteered for overseas service. That's the way it is with them. If the WAACs are changing the Army, the Army doesn't seem to be changing the women, much. They wear uniforms, yes, and they learn to march. They learn Army traditions and talk knowingly of general orders and converse in military jargon.

But for all their military ways, the WAACs brag that they are still feminine. "On hot days," says one officer, "we don't serve boiled beef and dumplings just because it's on the menu. Instead we serve a light salad."

"We're in uniform," says another, "but we can still go in for smart tailoring, and fine underwear."

"We have coveralls for fatigue duty, but we don't want slacks as our uniforms," says a third. "We still prefer skirts."

They still stick to powder and lipstick, though they don't use them as ostentatiously as in civilian life. One officer confessed that in her smart, military-looking shoulder-strap handbag, she still carried a lace-edged white hanky. Just to remember.

Recruiting Falls Off
Colonel Brown now beams with pride over his soft-boiled WAACs. He thinks they're wonderful. They think he's an old dear. There you have an idea of what's happening to what they used to call, "this man's army." It's this woman's army now, here at Oglethorpe, at any rate.

For some reason or other, recruiting of the WAACs has fallen off lately, and the Army brass hats want something done about it. The first line flush of enthusiasm with which the first volunteers enlisted hasn't followed through. A recruiting campaign is to be launched soon to build the 60,000 force to the authorized 150,000, but the real demand for WAACs is closer to 375,000. There's a bill before Congress now to increase to that number and make it a part of the regular Army, instead of just an auxiliary.

The WAACs have found 120 Army jobs that they can do—from cooking and baking to driving a truck. The WAACs claim they do these jobs better than men can do them, and they learn to do them faster. The dope is that the men have to be taught a thing nine times before they get it. The girls claim they can catch on after being shown twice. Surprisingly, about half of them are married, women who joined up after their

Flashes of Life

TREASURE HUNT

Lakeville, Conn.—John Jordan is leaving no stone unturned—and the same applies to floors—in his search for his false teeth.

Jordan swears he saw a rat pick up the teeth and disappear behind the woodwork.

Two floors of the three-story Jordan house have been ripped up but there's no sign of the rat or the teeth. Undismayed, Jordan plans to carry his search under the one remaining floor.

THE MOWER-DOWNER

Boise, Idaho—Sgt. William Rea

of Birmingham, Ala., saw a power-operated lawn mower at Gowen Field, so he bought one. His first attempt resulted:

Destruction of a picket fence, damage to two flower beds and a leg injury. The mower was wrecked, too.

Now he's looking for the kind you push.

HUNTING INCENTIVE

Joliet, Ill.—Will county commissioners said they had underestimated the enthusiasm of youthful fox hunters.

Schoolboys, spurred by a promise of $3 for each fox head brought to the board, have been scouring woodlots and river banks, armed with shovels. They dig out the fox dens, frequently bagging four to six animals in a single spot. Most of the foxes are cubs—but still worth $3.

The $500 appropriation for bounties is getting low.

NO CARFARE?

Oklahoma City—The county treasurer notified E. L. Green to come down and get a refund on his 1942 taxes.

Green went down eagerly, stood in line two hours and received his refund—one cent.

SLIGHT OVERSIGHT

Grand Island, Neb.—A Grand Island man insisted that his wife remain in bed after she suffered minor injuries in an automobile accident—he would take over the household duties.

After he quit work at the sugar factory at noon he did a bit of shopping and hurried home. He asked his wife what she would like for lunch.

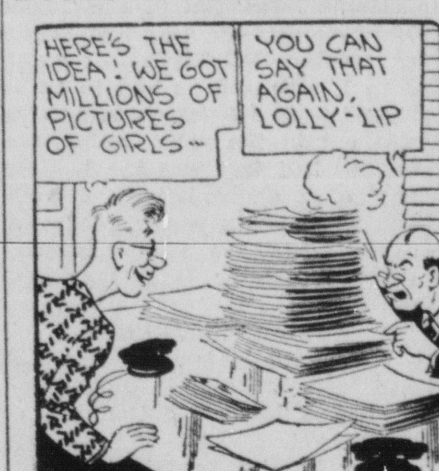

"First," she said, "I'd like to have some breakfast."

VERSATILE

Kansas City—Policemen William McNary and Shepard Hutto found an all-night lunchroom with the lights out, the cook gone and the door unlocked.

They called the owner—then turned on the lights and waited on trade for over an hour until a relief cook arrived.

House Votes to Let FDR Make Trade Pacts Another Two Years

Washington, May 14—(AP)—A house-approved bill renewing President Roosevelt's Authority to make reciprocal trade agreements was promised speedy senate consideration today with administration leaders expressing determination to block any move to give congress the right to pass on each pact.

Further than that, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee said he would do his utmost to give the executive branch the full three-year extension it asked, rather than the two years voted yesterday by the house.

The house passed the bill by a vote of 342 to 65, although a Republican - Democratic coalition trimmed the extension time from three to two years, by a count of 196 to 153.

IMPROVING ON NATURE

Chemigum, a synthetic product, is proving better than natural rubber for the rolls of printing presses. Inks and cleaning substances are less inclined to swell and distort it, and it can be compounded to special requirements.

Hollywood News

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Betty Hutton and Eddie Bracken the parents of sextuplets! Yes, it happens in their next Paramount picture, "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek." In fact, that's the miracle part of the title the studio and Producer Preston Sturges have secretly been guarding ever since the film's completion—unless it's been cut since the film's preview. We're sorry to spoil Mr. Sturges' big secret, but when they come in half dozens, even on the screen, it's a story not to be ignored. The multiple birth is the climax of the picture, a story of a girl who falls in love and marries a soldier in a small town just before he joins the Army.

Bob Benchley is preparing another one of those daffy shorts. This time he'll do a satire on Washington red tape. . . . If Columbia studio ever gets around to filming that celluloid biography of Al Jolson, the former Mrs. Jolson—Ruby Keeler—will be offered a role in the film. If she accepts, it will be the first time a divorced couple has played in the same picture since William Powell made screen love to his former wife, the late Carole Lombard. . . . Porter Hall, screen villain for the last 10 years, gets his second comedy role in recent months in Harry Sherman's "The Gun Master."

Gam Glamor
For the first time since she became a star, Jean Arthur is letting her legs help sell tickets for her new Columbia film, "The More the Merrier." All publicity and advertising for the picture is built around her gams. Jean, one of the town's top dramatic stars, until now has flatly refused to pose for leg art on grounds that it's not dignified. . . . Fading actresses usually turn to leg art when they're slipping at the box office, but I doubt whether Jean has started to slip yet. . . . Jane Farrar, cousin of Geraldine Farrar, is slated to play the opera star in a new film. . . . Cecil Kellaway is set for the role of William, the butler, in the film version of "Frenchman's Creek."

Closeup in Reverse
Don't ever ask Bill Carter, a new Hollywood leading man, how he felt when he faced the camera for the first time. He just made his movie debut backwards for a scene in Columbia's "Without Notice." He got a nice big closeup, all right, but not of his face. It was a closeup of his rear elevation, emerging from a lower berth.

No cracks, please, about Blanche Yurk singing the Star-Spangled Banner while standing on her head as a publicity stunt. She once did just that in a New York show.

MERCHANT MARINE CADETS
The United States Merchant Marine Cadet Corps has just celebrated its 50th birthday. Its complement has increased from 445 to 5200. Two thousand four hundred and ten cadets have been in training during the past 14 months, 993 at schools and 1417 aboard merchant vessels. Of the 238 cadet-midshipmen who served on ships sunk by enemy action, 63 were killed.

UNITY FOR EUROPE

What is true of France, with regard to postwar unity, is true of other countries of Europe individually and of Europe as a whole. Every country has its quotas of republicans, royalists, fascists and communists. It is possible that after the war Europe will emerge with several republican-royalist countries, such as Belgium, Holland, France and perhaps Germany on one side, and at least one communist country, such as Russia, on the other. That would pose a serious unity problem for the brave new world.

Russia has announced the intention of retaining the Polish Ukraine, Lithuania, Latvia; Estonia and Bessarabia after the nazis have been driven out. This puts a hitch in the Atlantic charter, to which the British and American administrations stand committed. It is also likely that Russia will wind up with most of Finland in her keeping, which will worry the Swedes and Norwegians no end.

Now if it is bad—as it is—for the Germans to overrun sundry countries and pitch their governments out on their ears, it is also bad for the Russians to do likewise. It is a matter of principle, and we take it that the war is being fought partly for the principle of the thing. People have a tendency to become so engaged against an active enemy that they accept, temporarily, in others, the very things against which they originally started fighting. To preserve unity for the war effort the United States has made no public protests officially against Stalin's annexation tendencies, which easily could upset afterward.

What we noted when Hitler first started his grabbing was that he seemed to want everything in sight. For him to acquire all of Europe would have presented a grave economic and military threat to others because he operated domestically on the basis of slave labor. He could have stolen markets generally and made life jittery or positively dangerous for the democracies. To put a stop to this march for power the British and French moved to battle. For similar reasons we protested Japan's encroachment of the Philippines and our normal markets in the far east, and the Japs bombed us.

The world could not function smoothly with two sets of slavery and one brand of democracy, nor can it do so with a single set of economic slavery and one brand of democracy. It is more true now than in the last war that we are fighting for democracy. Today democracy has two heads, political and economic.

Unfortunately Mr. Stalin is a very useful gentleman at this time and we can't take him to task. It is to be hoped he sees the light, or that Roosevelt and Churchill can exercise some of their well-known charm upon him.

Grain News

Chicago, May 14—(AP)—Visible stocks of Canadian wheat on May 7 totaled 414,497,253 bushels compared with 417,404,439 a week earlier and 432,259,244 a year ago; oats 32,407,101 against 32,164,800 and 4,525,945; barley 33,407,101 against 33,519,783 and 8,758,820; and rye 7,182,077 against 6,779,552 and 3,652,705.

Grain trade circles heard that the Commodity Credit Corporation had extended to mixed feed manufacturers its program for subsidizing the shipment east of corn purchased in the surplus producing belt. It was said the program provided that after May 17 commercial firms may sell grain bought in the corn belt to the CCC at the $1.07 a bushel Chicago basis and repurchase it at $1.02, the eastern basis, and the mix it in their plants for eastern delivery.

Broomhall, British grain authority, said that grain drying stations are to be built on sites throughout Great Britain under a scheme in which the ministries of agriculture and food will be associated. The Food Ministry will buy from farmers and the grain will be treated so it keeps without deterioration until it is required, Broomhall said.
